2018 International Symposium on Simulation and Process Modelling (ISSPM 2018)

July 21-22, 2018 Shenyang, China

Call for Papers

2018 International Symposium on Simulation and Process Modelling (ISSPM 2018) will be held in Shenyang, China, on July 21-22, 2018. It is organised by the Northeastern University, Shenyang, China, and the Shenyang JianZhu University, Shenyang, China. The Symposium provides a forum for scholars, researchers and practitioners interested in the modelling and simulation of business processes, production and industrial processes, service and administrative processes, and public sector processes to develop the theory and practice of simulation and process modelling. Topics of interest include (but not limited to):

- Theory, methodology, techniques, tools
- Modelling and simulation of
 - Business processes and process engineering
 - Healthcare/service/administrative/public sector processes
 - Supply chains and transport
 - Built environment, mechanics and metallurgical processes
- Verification and validation, simulation life-cycle evolution
- Service- and component-based composition and integration
- Reengineering processes
- Big data processing and cloud computing
- Recent developments, distributed simulation
- Performance optimisation through simulation
- Educational and training approaches, case studies and curricula
- Simulation in collaboration environments
- Simulation standards and languages

Submission & Publication

The papers submitted to the Symposium should be original and unpublished work within the above topics or related. All of the manuscripts will be peer-reviewed by at least two members of the international program committee.

The instructions for preparation and electronic submission are available shortly on the website of the Symposium. The papers accepted will be published on the special issues of international journals (IJSPM, IJISSCM and others).
